

The Mark VI

The Dinklaker Mark VI Deluxe Reading Glasses featured six tiny lamps designed to illuminate any object, such as a page in a book, in front of the wearer. And while the concept was sound, the product still needed some fine-tuning before it was ready—as Dinklaker’s R&D Department envisaged—to “revolutionize the consumer spectacles industry.”