

The Croc Pot

For years, The Croc Pot was the most popular restaurant in all of Albuquerque, thanks largely to its interactive floor show. Sure, the entertainment got out of hand at times and some patrons finished a meal with fewer appendages than when they started, but that was part of the culinary adventure, an adventure unhampered by silly waiver of liability agreements.